APRIL IS CHILD ABUSE PREVENTION MONTH

Violent attacks on children, like the tragic school shooting in Newton, Connecticut, capture headlines and leave us feeling powerless. It is difficult to know how best to protect children from acts of random and senseless violence. Schools and communities are examining this problem and will undoubtedly be making changes in the weeks and months to come.

Every congregation can become part of the solution by developing and implementing a child protection policy and taking other simple actions. A child protection policy provides simple guidelines for the protection of children and youth in congregations and schools.

Dove's Nest recommends that every congregation and school develop and implement a policy suited to its circumstances. For help with child protection policies and other resources visit: www.DovesNest.net.

MARY TWIGG CHOSEN AS "YOUNG LEADER"

Mary Twigg was recently chosen as the only student in Allegany County to attend the National Young Leaders State Conference in Washington DC.

The National Young Leaders State Conference (NYLSC) challenges each scholar to step forward with conviction and confidence, to grasp the concepts of leadership and to act upon his/her dreams of making a difference in their community. With the insight and guidance of highly trained facilitators and the assistance of their peers, scholars work within each activity to hone their plan of personal leadership.

The core leadership power tools are communication, conflict resolution, decision making, goal setting, group dynamics, leadership techniques, project management, self awareness and appreciating diversity.

NYLSC scholars strengthen the skills they need to succeed in school and gain new perspective on how they view their role as leaders in their communities, leaving the conference well-equipped to begin their journey. .

Mary has this to say about her experience:

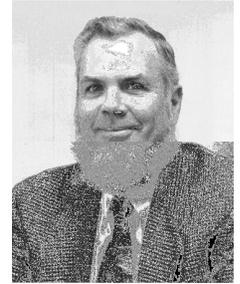

My time at NYLSC was a priceless experience because of all the new things I learned and all the new friends I made. My first day I showed up and knew no one but by the time I left I knew everyone at the conference and did not want to leave all my new friends.

Some new things I learned was a tool called the "Gift of Feedback" that taught me when was the right time to give feedback and how to give feedback. I was also on the Commencement Ceremony Committee and helped plan the ceremony and co-hosted the ceremony. I would like to thank everyone for all the support.

MOVIE NIGHT-APRIL 21 AT 7 PM

Following is a brief description of the video to be shown on Sunday evening, April 21.

Sixty years ago it was thought that the Amish would be swallowed up by the modern world around them. "The Amish: How They Survive" takes an intimate journey into Ohio Amish life and culture where, despite rapid growth and economic pressures, the Amish community thrives.

own experiences with friends and people we know, how are we to share it with those we meet in our life's journey who don't know Jesus?

On Sunday, everyone shared their stories and it went really well. It was very intimidating at first but with the activities planned and as they came to know the group, it made it fun. All of the youth in the Pinto group asked when the next retreat was going to be, they had such a great time.

MINISTERING TO THE INCARCERATED-KAIROS INSIDE

Richard Helmick has recently responded to a request from the Kairos organization to participate as a counselor in this ministry at Western Correctional Institution. He is currently in training for a Kairos weekend to be held April 25-28. Following is some information about this ministry from their website.

KAIROS INSIDE

Kairos believes that true rehabilitation starts with the "heart". With this in mind our ministry to incarcerated men and women begins with the Kairos weekend where volunteers model and communicate God's unconditional love, grace and mercy. It is here that God begins changing hearts. A key outcome of the Kairos weekend is for participants to find hope and a new vision for their life through a relationship with God.

The prison environment fosters isolation. During the weekend many participants take their first steps in learning to become vulnerable with one another. Following the weekend, they are encouraged to be involved in small groups focusing on accountability, encouragement and prayer. Those groups meet weekly and Kairos volunteers continue to return and provide discipleship and mentoring. God continues His work of changing hearts and transforming lives as the participants strengthen their relationship with Christ and with each other. They grow in their understanding that, with God's help, a changed way of life is possible. As transformation continues, new attitudes are expressed in changed behavior. Soon they are impacting the world in which they live—inside the prison walls or outside upon their release.

JR HIGH RETREAT

"SHARING AND CELEBRATING OUR STORIES"

About fifty 6th through 8th graders attended the Jr High Retreat at Laurelville sponsored by Allegheny Mennonite Conference on March 15-17. Five youth from Pinto attended with sponsors Mark and Paula Monnett. They included Michelle Young, Kelly Shuck, Ashley Shuck, Aaron Monnett, and Caleb Livengood. Teagan Powers was one of the members of the conference Youth Cabinet who helped plan and lead the music and recreation for the weekend.

The theme was to be able to share your life's story with others and how your relationship with Jesus has worked in your life. They also learned skills on listening and celebrating ones stories as they where shared. Even the adult sponsors had to participate in these learning skills . This made it easier for the students to see even at all ages its hard to share at times. The goal was to be able to tell your story to the whole group before they parted on Sunday.

There were two speakers who shared their life stories and four of the Cabinet members . Teagan was one of these. Play-Doh was used to shape something that was a part of each person's story and then that creation was shared with the group. They made posters from birth to now and then shared them with small groups, and performed stories out of the Bible by acting them out with skits. All three exercises were ways to teach the students how to feel more relaxed and open when sharing.

It was explained by Joy Cotchen, Conference Youth Minister and the retreat leader, that if we can't share our

Dear Friends & Family,

On April 5th, Mahlon & Dorothy Miller will be celebrating their 60th Wedding Anniversary! We would like to invite you to participate with us in their celebration through a "card shower". In honor of their many years together in dedicated ministry to one other, to their community, and to the Lord, we want to "shower" them with words of blessing, like they have "showered" so many of us.

Whether it be through a card (57377 CR 29, Goshen, IN 46528), an email (mahdor2@gmail.com), or a call (574-825-7518), please join us in telling Mahlon & Dorothy how much their lives and their marriage have meant to us over these past 60 years. They will be away from home from April 3-8, so you may not want to try calling on those days.

Thank you for participating in their celebration!
Sincerely, the Miller Grandchildren

"Our grandparents continue to talk fondly of the years they served at Pinto Mennonite (1962-1967), and the many wonderful relationships they developed."
